More

A film by Barbet Schroeder
With music by Pink Floyd

Barbet Schroeder (Single White Female, Maîtresse, The Valley) created a sensation when his controversial first feature More opened in 1969, and it quickly became a cult classic. Coming to Blu-ray for the first time, it is released by the BFI in a Dual Format Edition along with a newly commissioned documentary on the story behind it.

With his exams a distant memory, German student Stefan (Klaus Grünberg) burns his bridges and hitchhikes across Europe in pursuit of adventure and the warm southern sun. Seduced by the offbeat crowd he encounters in Paris – among them the shyly seductive Estelle (Mimsy Farmer) – Stefan is soon flying dangerously close to disaster.

The film is famous for its subdued, moody Pink Floyd soundtrack, featuring some of the band's most spontaneous and eclectic work – including Green is the Colour, Cymbaline and The Nile Song.
