Guidelines for applicants

Introduction

The BFI's Film Export Fund (the Fund) aims to enhance the export opportunities for British films where they have been selected to appear at important international film festivals.

Festivals can provide a powerful platform to launch international sales campaigns, but taking full advantage of these opportunities can present a level of financial risk for sales companies. This Fund aims to help sales agents to maximise a festival selection through enhanced publicity and/or marketing activity as well as assisting with technical and logistical costs involved with a high profile festival appearance.

Through supporting the export opportunities of individual British films that are selected for festivals the Fund aims to:

- Raise the profile of UK films in generally crowded festivals and international film markets;
- Increase opportunities for international sales and distribution of British films;
- Improve distribution advantages and the box office performance of British films in international markets;
- Promote UK film, talent, services and crews internationally.

A total of £200,000 has been allocated to the Film Export Fund.

Any queries about the Fund or the application should be directed to fef@bfi.org.uk.

Who can apply?

Applications can only be made for the promotion of an Eligible Film placed in an official category/competition at an Eligible Festival.

The current list of Eligible Festivals is set out in Appendix 1 to these Guidelines. Applications submitted in respect of any other festivals or for the general promotion of a film (e.g. at a market screening) will not be accepted. Applicants will be required to provide written confirmation from the Eligible Festival that the Eligible Film has been officially selected.

An Eligible Film is one that:

- Is wholly capable of qualifying for certification as a British film through:
 - Schedule 1 to the Films Act 1985 (The Cultural Test); or
 - one of the UK's official co-production treaties; or
 - the European Convention on Co-Production.
- has a production budget of £6,000,000 or less;
- has a minimum duration of 69 minutes; and
- is intended for theatrical release.

An Eligible Film can only receive a maximum of two awards from the Fund.

Applications can only be made by sales agents/companies attending the Eligible Festival and representing the Eligible Film (a sales agent/company must be a legally registered company with a core business of selling films in the international market).

BFI, may in exceptional circumstances and at its sole discretion, accept applications from the producer of an Eligible Film if, at the point of application no sales agent/company has yet been appointed but the film has been accepted to an Eligible Festival. In such instances the producer should contact fef@bfi.org.uk before seeking to apply. Any subsequent offer of funding from the BFI would be made to the sales company (after its appointment) and not to the production company,

Applications from individuals will not be accepted.

Applicants may be required to provide written evidence in respect of all the above points.

Purpose of the award

Awards from the Fund can be used for one or more of the following:

- Production of subtitled prints and/or digital cinema packages for use at the Eligible Festival;
- Travel and accommodation costs to the Eligible Festival for the director or other key talent;
- The press campaign at the Eligible Festival (including electronic press kits and/or the appointment of an international public relations agency); or
- Marketing items for the Eligible Festival.

The applicant may receive financial support from the Eligible Festival or from other public agencies for some or all of the above items. For the avoidance of doubt, while BFI may co-fund alongside such support, requests to cover expenditure already being met/reimbursed by such co-funding (i.e. double dipping) will not be permitted and will result in any offer of funding being withdrawn by BFI.

Where the Eligible Film already has a local distributor attached in the territory of the Eligible Festival the award can only be used for items directly related to delivering a wider international promotional value such as:

- The appointment of an international public relations agency;
- Production of press packs for the international press; or
- Talent travel and accommodation costs.

How to apply

All applicants must complete the online application, available on the BFI website.

Please note that applicants wishing to apply will first be first asked to create an account which will allow applications to be saved and reviewed before submission. Once applicants have an account set up, future applications will be pre-populated with contact details. The applicant will also be able to access all previously submitted applications, including in-progress applications, at any point by logging into their account.

Account Login

The account enables the British Film Institute to confirm by email that the application has been received and, at this stage, a unique Application ID number will be assigned to the application for your records. We do, however, request that applicants additionally email fef@bfi.org.uk to make the team directly aware that your application has been submitted.

To make an application and to create an Account Login, please proceed to the application form below:

<http://www.bfi.org.uk/about/funding/exportfund.html>

The information to be submitted will include:

- Details of the Eligible Film and Eligible Festival;
- The Eligible Film's duration and budget;
- Details of the expenditure on the Eligible Film at the Eligible Festival;

Incomplete applications will not be processed.

If you have problems completing or submitting an application please contact Vivien Muller-Rommel on 020 7255 1444 or email fef@bfi.org.uk

What happens next?

Applications submitted online will be acknowledged automatically.

Applications will be processed and assessed by the BFI's Distribution and Exhibition Department.

On receipt of the application BFI will assess the eligibility of the application (taking account of the requirements set out in 'Who Can Apply' above) and may request submission of further written material as evidence of eligibility. Where an application is ineligible the applicant will be notified in writing.

If the BFI, at its sole discretion, considers the application to be eligible it will then assess the application taking into account the following criteria:

- The quality of the marketing and promotion plan for Eligible Film at the Eligible Festival;
- The proposed budget/expenditure for the Eligible Film at the Eligible Festival and whether it represents value for money;

- The source and availability of other income to meet the budget; and
- The degree to which the above activity contributes to the aims of the Fund (see the Introduction).

The BFI's Distribution & Exhibition Department will make recommendations to the BFI's internal Lottery Finance Committee as to which applications it wishes to support. The BFI may undertake a due diligence assessment of the applicant.

The Lottery Finance Committee will decide whether to support the application. The decision of the BFI as to whether it wishes to support the application is final. Not all applications will be successful. All applicants will be informed in writing of the decision on their application.

Offer of funding

If an application is successful the applicant will be sent an Offer of Funding setting out the terms and conditions attaching to the award. This Offer of Funding must be counter-signed and returned to the BFI within 14 days of issue or it will automatically lapse.
