At the BFI we are passionate about film. Philanthropy plays a key role in enabling us to champion moving image past, present and future. This includes caring for our precious film archive; widening opportunities for the next generation through our education initiatives; and strengthening and diversifying our cultural programme to ensure the greatest choice of independent and world cinema is available to everyone, everywhere.

LEAVE A LEGACY

A gift to the BFI in your Will has the power to be truly transformative for our work, and will leave a lasting impact for audiences and filmmakers, forever. If you notify us of your intentions we will be able to thank you personally, guide you through the process and welcome you to the BFI Legacy Circle.

MAKE A DONATION

A donation of any size will make a real difference to our charitable activity.

If there is a particular area of our work which captures your interest, we would love to have a conversation with you about specific project support.
